Mrs. Jobes Was in Serious Condition From Dropsy. Doan's Made Her Well.

"I don't think many have gone through such misery as I," says Mrs. J. Jobes, 130 Federal St., Burlington, N. J. "That awful pain in my back, the swelling of my face, the dropsy, the head aches and I had reeling and falling sensations when everything would turn black. Though the kidney secretions passed ten or fifteen times in an hour, only a few drops came out. I was so swollen I could hardly see out of my eyes. My ankles and feet felt as though they would burst if I put any weight on them. My night clothes became wringing wet with sweat and I would get chilly and shake all over. Doan's Kidney Pills soon had me feeling like a different woman. My kidneys were regulated and all the swelling went away. The aches and pains left me and after I had finished my eighth box of Doan's I was as well as ever. My kidneys have never bothered me since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

FINE CROPS SURE

Outlook in Western Canada Never More Favorable.

Perfect Weather Conditions Enabled Early Seeding and Wheat Has Long Been Above Ground in the Land of Opportunity.

The greatest optimism prevails throughout every district in Western Canada. From the eastern boundary of Manitoba to the slopes of the Rocky Mountains the farmers have been busy for three weeks in seeding operations. Last fall, even for Western Canada, was an exceptional one. Threshing was completed at an early date and the amount of fall plowing made ready for crop from fifteen to twenty-five per cent more acreage than in any year in the brief history of the country. Therefore there was ready for seeding this spring an acreage away beyond anything ever before experienced in that country.

On April 20 Calgary (Alta.) reported that in south country points there was a notable spirit of optimism amongst the farmers there. Moisture and weather conditions were good, while land in most places was in the best possible condition. More tractors were being put into operation than in any previous year. In some parts of the south country, however, there was a marked shortage of labor, but in the consideration of the country as a whole the labor outlook was bright.

Seeding operations were well under way in every part of Western Canada by the fifteenth of April. The practice of the farmers in that country is to commence as soon as the frost is out of the ground enough to allow the few inch seed bed to be worked up well. Beneath this the ground may still be frozen, but from this frost the young and tender wheat roots get the moisture at first so necessary to its existence. The warm days of spring and the long hours of sunlight that are ushered in with it thaw the frost out day by day and pay to the growing plant the moisture as it is needed. Nature's way of producing moisture to the young wheat plant is one of the chief reasons why Western Canada has become world famous as a wheat-producing country. What may be said of wheat can as truly be said of oats and barley, and yes, in fact, corn, too. Rapid and strong growth is stimulated in this manner. Heavy spring rains usually occur after seeding is over and the grain well above ground. Already a report has been received, dated April 20, that a farmer near Carleton Place, Saskatchewan, had 180 acres of wheat showing above the ground.

A good, strong and sturdy wheat plant is necessary when it is expected that there will be produced a forty-bushel-to-the-acre crop of wheat of a quality that will weigh out its sixty-five pounds to the measured bushel.

These spring wheat conditions represent but one of the reasons why Western Canada has been able to produce, with so little effort, world's record grain crops, wheat and oats that have carried off all championship awards at America's largest exhibitions.

Western Canada has this spring shipped ten thousand bushels of Marquis wheat, the variety that holds most of the world's championships, to Australia, where it is to be tried out. Seventy-five thousand bushels of the same variety has been sent to France to be used for seed.

The wheat lands of Western Canada are probably the most undervalued of any on the continent.

A comparatively small acreage of Western Canada's lands has been sold as high as $60 an acre. The greater portion of the best farming land in its unimproved state may be purchased at $25 an acre. The comparison between these prices and an annual revenue derived from grain-growing alone, with big yields and present prices, can but more firmly impress one with the certainty of a rapid increase within the next few years.—Advertisement.

SUPREME COURT HEARS PROTESTS

Arguments on Rail Control Heard Before the High Tribunal.

ILLINOIS CASE IS CITED

Intrastate Adjustments of Wire Tariff Are Defended—Owing to Importance of Controversy an Early Decision Promised.

Washington, May 7.—Arguments were heard in the Supreme court in proceedings involving the right of the federal government to interfere with intrastate freight and passenger rates and telephone tolls under the joint congressional resolutions authorizing federal control of the railroads and wire systems of the country. While the cases heard came from five states—North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Illinois and Massachusetts—proceedings attacking the government's authority had been instituted in about twenty-five states, with the result that in some the government's contention was upheld while in others decisions favorable to the state authorities were rendered.

Owing to the importance of the question, court officials said final determination of the suits might be made before the Supreme court adjourns next month. Solicitor General King, in opening the telephone cases, urged dismissal of the proceedings on the ground that they were suits brought by the states against the government without its consent.

He noted, however, that the appeal from Illinois resulted from a suit brought by the postmaster general to restrain the Illinois authorities from interfering with his orders.

"Do you think that Mr. Burleson had a right to bring that suit?" asked Justice Kenna.

"Yes," replied the solicitor general. "It is a suit against the state authorities to protect the service and his employees."

"They are not his employees, but those of the United States," interjected Justice Kenna.

"Yes, but it's for the protection of the employees and to prevent the state authorities from interfering," the solicitor general said. "I'd rather not go into the matter as to his right to bring the suit at this time, however."

Federal court decrees dismissing injunction proceedings brought to enjoin enforcement of interstate commerce orders of December 30, 1910, increasing iron and steel freight rates from Pittsburgh, Pa., and other Eastern territory points to the Seattle (Wash.) district were upheld by the Supreme court.

Conviction in Ohio of Dennis Kelley, president, and three other officials of the Capital City Dairy company, on charges of defrauding the government out of $1,000,000 in taxes on oleomargarine manufactured by the company was sustained in effect. The court denied petitions filed by the defendants seeking to have their cases reviewed.

The World's Next Step

NO. 6
What Is Our Duty in Connection With the League of Nations?

By CLARENCE L. SPEED
(Written for and Approved by the Illinois Branch of League to Enforce Peace.)
"What is my duty as an individual in connection with the league of nations?" you may ask. "What have I got to do with this big world question? Will any action on my part have any influence on the forces that are now settling the destinies of the world?"

Every citizen of the United States has a duty to perform now, in connection with the league of nations, just as urgent as he had when we were at war. You did not hesitate to do your part then just because you were only one of a hundred million and on the theory that any little saving or investing or working that you could do would have little effect toward defeating Germany.

Every individual citizen is represented in Washington by a senator. You may not know him; may never have seen him. Nevertheless he has some respect for your opinions; he wishes to win your vote once more. If he did not respect the opinions of his constituents he would be a queer person, for he is sent to Washington to carry out the wishes of the majority of the voters.

Now the United States senate is the body which has the power to ratify or reject treaties. The British premier has promised to submit the peace treaty to parliament for its approval, too; but he has just had an election and knows where parliament stands. When the representatives of all or most of the other nations sign the treaty of peace, that is all that is necessary. It then becomes operative.

But America will not be at peace with Germany nor will it be a member of the league of nations until the senate has ratified the treaty. If the senate should refuse to ratify it, we would then be in the position of being at war when all the remainder of the world was at peace, and of being out side of a league of nations which embraced most of the other important countries.

"Is it possible," you may ask, "that the senate could fail to ratify a treaty and thus leave us out in the cold? Are we ready to stand alone in this federated world? Can we assume the role of China and build a wall of exclusiveness around us?"

Looked at in that light it does not seem possible; yet when one listens to the speeches made daily in the senate it does seem as though many senators are far from ready to vote for the treaty which contains a provision for a league of nations. They may believe that they are backed by the voters. It is our duty as voters to let them know whether they are carrying out our wishes or not.

In this series of articles there has been no attempt to present an argument that the constitution of the league of nations as it stands is a perfect document. There very likely is room for many improvements. If there were not, it would be an exception to every other constitution ever adopted.

Conditions may arise a decade or century from now of which we can have no conception at this time, any more than the framers of the American Constitution could have foreseen the developments of today.

But there can be no doubt that the world, as a whole, now disapproves of war and denies the necessity for war, and that the league of nations as now proposed is a sincere effort to do away with the danger of war.

There is every reason to believe that it stands more than a fair chance of succeeding, while it is so drawn as to present few if any perils that we have not always had with us if it fails to succeed.

The constitution of the league does not prevent the United States from doing anything it wants to do, for the reason that the United States has no designs on the property of its neighbors. It does not impose any new burdens upon us comparable with the war debt which has just been heaped on us through no fault or desire of our own.

The league may call upon the United States to do its part in governing some of the backward portions of the globe until they are ready to govern themselves. This may entail some expense, some trouble, possibly some small loss of American lives, as in the case of the Philippines, but nothing in comparison to the losses in men and money sustained in our participation in what was for us only the fog end of a great world war.

Every man must do his duty in his own community. If he expects good government, if he believes in the league of nations, it is his duty now to let his representatives in the senate know it. If he does not, it likewise is his duty to make his beliefs known.

The plain people, the world over, are letting it be known that they are against international war. Most of them believe that the league of nations is now the one way to prevent it. If you so believe, you are not doing your duty, unless you let your senator know that you want the treaty ratified.

Illinois senators are Medill McCormick, 111 West Washington street, Chicago, Ill., and Lawrence Y. Sherman, Springfield, Ill. Communications may be sent them at these addresses.

Further information regarding the league of nations, including pamphlets, may be obtained at the office of the Illinois state branch of the League to Enforce Peace, 342 Monadnock block, Chicago, Ill.

REDS ATTEMPT TO HOLD MEET

Police and Ex-Soldiers Battle
7,000 Foreigners at
Gary, Ind.

PATRIOTS ROUT BOLSHEVIKI

Parade Is Stopped and Red Ties
Stripped From 6,960 Anarchists—
Forty Men Are Arrested—
Cannot Speak English.

Gary, Ind., May 6.—Seven thousand bewhiskered, red-necked professional anarchists gathered in Gary to make good their promise of staging a parade and street demonstration.

There was no parade; there was nothing so dignified as a "demonstration." There was, however, a free-for-all street fight, climaxed with 40 of the anarchists in jail and the remaining 6,960 neckties, even collarless and in some instances shirtless.

Fifty police armed with riot guns, 25 deputy sheriffs with automatic pistols, several hundred returned soldiers restless for a fight and a volunteer organization of Gary citizens met the radicals and almost literally chewed them up.

There were two distinct battles during the daylight hours. The first occurred at noon and definitely decided the anarchists against conducting their raid.

The second developed at 4 p. m., when a throng of the "proletariat" refused to disperse when directed by the police. A total of 40 men was arrested after the pair of fights.

The police, soldiers and citizens who flung themselves into the fray came out of the affair with no wounds showing. Many of the "reds" were badly beaten.

After the two engagements the anarchists—few of whom could speak a word of English—scattered in search of liniments and bandages.

In spite of the casualties, it was agreed the social function of the reds' "convention" would be carried out as scheduled in the evening. This was to be a dance. Police, soldiers and the citizens' committee having tasted blood, announced that they, too, would participate in the night's "entertainment."

Leaders of the I. W. W. movement had planned on conducting their national convention in Chicago Saturday. Anarchists had arranged to feature a demonstration. The "show" was given wide advertisement, but at the last hour the promoters decided it would be safer to "try it first on the dog."

Gary, Indiana's industrial center, was selected, chiefly because of its foreign-speaking population. All those concerned with the overthrow of the government were invited. Morris Lieberman, Russian druggist in Gary, was in charge of local arrangements.

Mayor W. H. Hodges issued a proclamation promising to break up any street demonstration that might be attempted. Mr. Lieberman and his assistants on the arrangements committee laughed sardonically.

"The proclamation be damned," they are understood to have announced in fervid Russian.

A stream of the anarchists finally organized itself into a semblance of formation and rambled around to the Fourteenth street hall, where, it was announced, the opening session of the "convention" would be held immediately and the parade commenced directly afterward.

It ambled down the street and found its way into the Romanian hall in Adams street. The delegates who couldn't wedge their way into the meeting room girdled the building in whistles and red, red ties. The police, deputy sheriffs, soldiers and citizens' vigilance committee, led by Col. Charles H. Maloney, attacked.

Those within the hall were not molested immediately. The police took stations at every door and window and mentioned that they would "bide their time."

A few of the anarchists without tried to offer resistance, when their back was to them. These were promptly walked on. A score were ended into patrol wagons and taken to the jail.

The meeting adjourned. As each anarchist passed through the door he was relieved of his red buttons, red ties and badges. There was a show of resistance.

REDS RIOT MAY DAY

TANKS AID POLICE IN FIGHTING AT CLEVELAND.

Eleven Officers Wounded and 100 Persons Injured During Demonstration—200 Arrested.

Cleveland, O., May 3.—An unidentified man was killed by a detective's bullet, 11 policemen were shot or badly beaten, and about 100 persons wounded, many seriously, in general rioting which brought a dramatic finale to a Socialist May day demonstration of 20,000 reds here.

About thirty persons, seriously injured, are in hospitals, while scores of others, including women, were trampled by rioters and clubbed by police.

Socialists and sympathizers in East Ninth street and at Public Square were ridden down by mounted policemen and by soldiers in army tanks and trucks.

Socialist headquarters were totally wrecked by angry civilians bent on putting an end to the demonstration. The rioting was general in Public Square, East Ninth street, Huron road, Prospect avenue, Superior avenue, Bolivar avenue and other thoroughfares.

The one fatality occurred at Central and Woodland avenues, when a mob said to have been composed of Socialists and sympathizers rushed Detective Woodring and other officers. Woodring drew his revolver to save his own life, fired into the alleged leader of the mob, the bullet passing through the man's neck, killing him instantly.

Over 200 rioters were arrested. A score were found to have weapons on them, police say.

New York, May 3.—Rioting followed the celebration by the New York Call, the Socialist daily newspaper, of its occupation of new offices on Fourth avenue and the display outside of what some soldiers called "bolshevik posters."

250 PERSONS HURT IN PARIS

Several American Soldiers Are Victims of Their Curiosity in Concorde Place.

Paris, May 5.—Two hundred and fifty policemen were hurt, one sergeant, who was stabbed in the back, being in a dangerous condition, during the May day disorders, according to an announcement made by the prefecture of police at midnight. Apparently only one person was killed, a youth named Lorne, who according to reports not yet authenticated, was struck by several revolver bullets. The person who fired the shots is said to have been arrested, but his identity has not been established.

Several American soldiers were hurt in the Place de la Concorde, being the victims of their curiosity.

FOE MUST SIGN WITHIN 15 DAYS

Will Be Permitted to Consider Treaty and Make Counter-Proposals.

ENEMY CHIEF NEARLY FAINTS

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau Almost Overcome With Emotion When He Presents Credentials to Allies' Envoy.

Paris, May 5.—The German delegates to the peace congress will have 15 days in which to consider the treaty and make any counter-proposals they desire. It has been learned. They may begin offering their suggestions at any time, but no day of grace will be allowed. Representatives of the allies, it was stated, reserve the right to reply to any of the German objections or proposals at any time, but the belief is expressed that no more than five days or a week will be required for closing the exchanges of ideas.

While the date for the presentation of the treaty to the Germans has still not been fixed, it probably will be Monday or Tuesday. Numerous details remain to be approved, but consideration of them has reached such a stage that it is reasonably certain that the peace documents can be whipped into shape in the next three or four days. The ceremony of presentation will be in the presence of only the delegates of the governments which participated in the war.

The council of three is proceeding with its deliberations, unembarrassed by the absence of the Italian delegates. Italy is still regarded as a member of the conference and invitations are being forwarded to her ambassador for participation in the conference.

Among the questions still unsettled and which M. Clemenceau, David Lloyd George and President Wilson considered, at two meetings is the disposition of the German cables. It is learned that the Belgian claims have been finally disposed of or that an agreement has been reached giving Belgium priority in the reparations to the amount of $500,000,000.

Versailles, France, May 5.—Pale and almost fainting from emotion, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the German foreign secretary and head of the German peace delegation, passed through what evidently was one of the bitterest moments of his life Thursday. He was barely able to sustain himself through the brief ceremony of presenting the credentials of the delegations to a committee of the United States and the allies.

The meeting took place in the room of the Trianon hotel previously used for the sessions of the supreme military council. Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, on entering, was accompanied by Herr Landsberg, Professor Schuecking and two secretaries, and waiting for him the allied representatives were grouped around Jules Cambon, the former French ambassador to Berlin, who is chairman of the commission.

Other members of the allies' party include Henry White of the United States, Lord Harding, Great Britain, and Ambassador Matsui, Japan.

TO RUSH U. S. TROOPS HOME

American Army in Europe to Be Limited to Force on the Rhine.

Paris, May 3.—The American expeditionary force will be reduced solely to the army of occupation along the Rhine as rapidly as possible, it was announced.

Three hundred thousand American soldiers will be sent home during May and a like number in June. After the first of July the use of French ports will be abandoned, American-controlled railroads returned to France and American and military police withdrawn. Antwerp will then become the American supply base under command of Brig. Gen. W. D. Connor. Communications hereafter will be through Belgium.

VON HINDENBURG IS OUT

Head of German Army Says Kaiser's Militarism Is Dead—Sends in Resignation.

Coblenz, May 5.—"German militarism has been broken forever," is a statement attributed to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, reports of whose resignation have been received. General Groener, former head of the department of munitions, who has been the field marshal's chief of staff, is mentioned as his chief's successor, according to news received here from Kolberg.

WILL CALL CONGRESS

WILSON TO SUMMON LAWMAKERS ON OR BEFORE JUNE 1.

President's Plans Depend Wholly Upon Developments in Paris—Will Issue Call by Cable.

Washington, May 5.—That it is President Wilson's intention to be back in Washington by June 1 was admitted at the White House. Barring unforeseen developments the president for sometime, it was stated, has counted upon being in America again on that date. Also, it was learned, it is the president's present plan to call the new congress into extraordinary session on or about that date. If no contingency arises, he has decided to issue the call from Paris as soon as he is certain of the date of his arrival in the United States and then in Washington in time to appear before a joint session of the lawmakers. These plans, of course, are entirely tentative and depend wholly upon developments in Paris, White House officials pointed out.

U. S. FLYERS DIE AT PANAMA

Army Officers Sink When Airplane Hits the Canal Lock Gate—One Slightly Hurt.

Panama, May 5.—Maj. R. M. Clark of California and Lieut. R. G. Tonkin, Atlanta, Ga., were killed in an airplane accident at Miraflores Locks. Lieut. J. R. Hitt was slightly injured. Major Clark and Lieutenant Tonkin were passengers in the hydroplane driven by Lieutenant Hitt. Because of engine trouble the machine was flying low. It cleared the first gate of the lower lock chamber, but struck the second gate, upsetting and throwing the three men into the water.

PLAN TO REGULATE PRICES

Massachusetts to Have Commission to Fix Cost of Necessities of Life.

Boston, Mass., May 5.—That a permanent state commission be appointed to regulate the prices of the necessities of life and that the lease of the state fish pier be broken if it is found that any of the lessees were responsible for the formation of the alleged fish trust were two recommendations made by a special investigating committee to the legislature. The commission has been investigating the fish industry and living conditions generally for 18 months.

HAYWOOD TO STAY IN PRISON

Chicago, May 5.—William D. Haywood, I. W. W. chieftain, and four of his associates now confined in the federal penitentiary at Port Leavenworth for violation of the espionage act, must remain in prison until they can furnish bonds more acceptable than those they have offered to obtain their freedom. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals refused to approve bonds for Haywood and four other I. W. W. leaders.

Hurt on Submarine Chaser.

Charleston, S. C., May 5.—Three naval men and 13 Charleston firemen were injured by explosion of a gasoline tank on the submarine chaser 58, which later burned to the water's edge.

Joffre to Visit U. S.

Washington, May 5.—Private advices received here say Marshal Joffre has not changed his plan to visit the United States, again before the end of this year. He has not fixed a date for his trip.

Quaker's Steel Pipeless Furnace Three Times as Fast

In the Quaker Pipeless furnace it is built of heavy boiler plate steel.

QUAKER STEEL PIPELESS FURNACE

Steel radiates heat three times as fast as cast iron; in other words, it moves or circulates three times as much air in a given time.

The fact that the Quaker moves three times as much air as any other Pipeless Furnace means that it requires less fuel—and it means that the air will be cleaner and purer.

As there are no joints and as gas cannot penetrate steel, there positively cannot be any leakage.

Has Every Advantage of Every Other Furnace

Besides this exclusive steel construction feature, the Quaker has many other unique advantages—a fire brick that withstands the heat of over 3,400 degrees, a patent hot blast and a large combustion chamber enables it to consume the smoke, soot and gas, and therefore use much less fuel. A generous water pan which provides proper humidity. The Quaker is equally efficient with any fuel, but is particularly designed to burn soft coal.

Heats Entire House From One Register

Only one register is required with the Quaker, and that connects directly with the furnace itself. No pipes, no bulky cold air returns. Simpler than a stove to operate, cleaner, more saving of fuel and vastly more comfortable.

Investigate the Quaker. There should be a dealer in your home town. If not, write us and we will send you free our handsome catalog. We will also put you in touch with a dealer.

Out of Order.

The village was all agog. Flossie Flatfoot was marrying William Giles. The church was crowded. Flossie, looking as pale as her somewhat highly colored countenance would allow, bore up until the plain band ring was safely on her finger, and then, overcome, burst into tears.

The villagers were touched, but not anxious. All girls cry at weddings. Then suddenly William Giles screwed up his face and broke into howls. Tears poured down his face and dripped off his whiskers.

"What's up? Hush," man!" those nearest him urged. But Giles continued to howl, and at last burst out: "Let me be! I feel wuss 'an 'er about it!"—London Tit-Bits.

WITH AN EYE TO THE FUTURE

Prima Donna Had Good Business Reasons for Asking for Slight Change in Contract.

Senator Lodge sounded the warning that the articles of the league of nations should be weighed carefully before being adopted. He asserted that too many ties might well jeopardize our future.

"Indeed," we may well follow the example of the prima donna who was reading a rough draft of her new contract.

"When she came to the paragraph providing that she should have transportation for herself and maid, her dog and Signor Gazibeni, her husband, she drew a line through the singer's name. "Just make that husband," she said. "Yes, madam," asserted the manager, "but may I ask why?"

"The diva blushed and coyly angled her hair. "I might wish to make a change," she answered.

British Museum Library

Entrance Hall of British Museum.

IT HAS become customary to start the history of the British Museum library with a transaction which took place between the British government and Sir Hans Sloane in 1753, but, as a matter of fact, the genesis of this library should be recorded 20 years earlier. The event chronicled upon this date of October 23, 1731, is a fire at Ashburnham house which partly destroyed the famous Cottonian library, and emphasized in the minds of influential patrons of learning the absolute necessity of properly housing the great collections which as yet had escaped the same fate, says the Christian Science Monitor.

That portion of the Cottonian collection which was saved from the flames still exists as an important and valuable part of the present British museum. Sir Robert Cotton was a real booklover and a natural collector. When summoned by Queen Elizabeth to Calais as royal commissioner in arranging a treaty between England and Spain, it was with sincere regret that he accepted the appointment, because it took him away from his library and from the research in which he found the greatest delight of life. Later Cotton's political activities aroused the suspicions of Charles I., and, as a result, his beloved library was sealed up and he himself arrested. When later a royal messenger came to him with the message that under certain conditions he might be released to court favor, Cotton replied: "You come too late, my heart is broken."

The famous library was restored years later to Sir Robert's son and successor, Sir Thomas Cotton, who inherited, also, his father's love of books. From Sir Thomas it came down to Sir John Cotton, who presented the collection to the nation in 1700. The Cotton library, therefore, should be considered the nucleus to which the other collections were added.

Money Raised by Lottery.

This brings us to Sir Hans Sloane, where the chronicle usually begins. Sir Hans was physician, naturalist, and antiquary, and during his life he accumulated library, but originally such restrictions were imposed as to make its use almost inaccessible. In the first place, it was announced that the library would be open "except Saturday and Sunday of each week, except Christmas day and one week after, except the week after Easter Sunday and the week after Whitsuntide, and except Good Friday, and all days which now or shall hereafter be specially appointed for Thanksgivings or feasts by public authority."

If a prospective student were able to master the mathematics of these restrictions, he then presented himself at the porter's lodge, where he was obliged to give his name, condition and address, to be entered in the register. This accomplished, the volume was laid before the librarian to decide whether the person so applying was entitled to admission. If the question were settled in the affirmative, on a second visit the applicant might receive his ticket. Having secured the precious card, he would then present himself for admission, but, as there was a restriction that not more than ten persons should be admitted for each hour the museum was open, it was still problematical whether he would be successful. If so fortunate as to be a member of one of these groups of ten he was then escorted around the library by a guide, with a limit placed upon the time, and with every element created to destroy the pleasure of literary communion with the volumes.

Later, important additions to the Cottonian, Harleian, and Sloane collections include the Royal library of 12,000 volumes, which was eventually turned over to the British museum by George II; the Thomason collection of "Kings' Pamphlets," the de Costa collection of Hebrew books and manuscripts; the Birch collection of biography; David Garrick's library of English plays; Musgrave's collection of biography and manuscripts; the Cracherode collections of books and prints.

Some Great Acquisitions.

All these collections were acquired previous to the year 1807 with no exception to the government, but part of approximately

$2,000 was appropriated for the purchase of the Graye Legal library, and, in 1813, $13,500 was granted to the classical library of Dr. Burney. Two years later the Welsh Royal library acquired by George III became part of the British museum. This necessitated larger quarters, and was the beginning of the reconstructed museum. George III's library contained no less than 84,000 volumes. George IV tried to dispose of the collection to the emperor of Russia to enrich his own private coffers, but this plan was frustrated, and the volumes were saved to the British nation.

Francis Egerton was a later benefactor of the Museum library. He bequeathed to it the famous Egerton manuscripts, together with $12,000, the interest on which to be devoted to increasing the collection and maintaining a custodian. Three years later, in 1832, the autograph collection of the museum was enriched by the acquisition of the Arundel manuscripts; and, in 1847, the Rt. Hon. Thomas Grenville presented to the museum his magnificent library, which is still preserved as a unit under the donor's name.

No library is geographically situated more favorably to be available to the world than the British museum. A famous American collector some years ago bequeathed to it an extraordinary collection he himself had made, which it seemed from patriotic motives should have been turned over to some American institution. After having worked in the British museum, however, and after seeing the cosmopolitan nature of those who visit and make use of its treasures, one is forced to admit that this collection will accomplish its highest good by being where it is rather than consigned to the geographical limitation of any one of the American libraries. In this case the American donor considered his loyalty to letters beyond the demand of any nationality.

Early Restrictions on Use. The records show that the building containing the collections went to make up the British museum was thrown open to the public on January 15, 1759; but, as the "thrown open" requires some explanation, today there is no ill-defined world where the visitor is able to inspect and make use of its wonderful contents with freedom than the British

"The Airbug'll Git You, if You Don't Watch Out"

WASHINGTON.—Senatorial aviators have become so numerous among statesmen whiling away the hours in Washington until congress reconvenes that leaders have become apprehensive of casualties and are demanding the adoption of a "pairing" system in arranging flights.

In other words, Republican leaders want an understanding that every time a Republican senator is taken up one or more Democratic senators must be taken up, too. They want the risk to be made bipartisan.

The Republican margin of control in the senate is only two votes. A casualty or two among the Republican senatorial aviators, followed by the appointment of a Democratic successor, as might happen in several cases, would upset their control and place the machinery back in the hands of the Democrats despite the results of the last election. Hence the solicitude of the Republican shepherds for their flocks and their demand for a pairing system.

It is an every-day sight nowadays to see senators soaring in planes over Washington. Half a dozen or so "go up" nearly every morning from Bolling field. Hardly a senator remaining in Washington for President Wilson to call an extra session has escaped the flying craze.

Among the more prominent of the senatorial aces are Senator Henderson of Nevada, Senator Jones of Washington, Senator McNary of Oregon, Senator Pittman of Nevada, Senator King of Utah, Senator Sterling of South Dakota, and Senator New of Indiana.

So the Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley, is now parenthesized thus by the Republican leaders in Washington: "The airbug'll git you if you don't watch out."

Lawmakers Sure New Child Labor Law Will Stand

THE political savants who watch the course of events "up on the hill" in Washington are chuckling over the clever manner in which congress recently passed another federal child labor law. The new law is tucked to the end of the revenue bill, and is so technically correct, according to one of its framers, that the Supreme court is going to have a hard time proving it unconstitutional.

For there is a feud between the United States congress and the United States Supreme court which dates back to the days when John Jay managed to make the court much more influential than congress thought it had any right to be—a feud which has lost none of its virility. Thus the new child labor law is worded very carefully. It provides that in addition to all other taxes, an excise tax of 10 per cent of the entire net profits shall be collected by the commissioner of Internal revenue on the output of mills, canneries, workshops, factories and manufacturing establishments employing children under fourteen years of age; and of quarries employing children under sixteen years of age.

This same tax will also be levied where children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen are employed for more than eight hours a day or on night work. That is all. Nothing is said about how the law is to be enforced. In the executive, legislative and judicial appropriation bill, however, the commissioner of Internal revenue is provided with an appropriation of $184,100, which he is permitted to turn over to the secretary of labor to enforce the child labor law. It does not say that he must do this, but that he may do it.

Congress did not dare mention the children's bureau, which was given authority to enforce the first child labor law. The whole matter is left to the discretion of the commissioner of Internal revenue. If he wants to employ the children's bureau to do this work for him it is not illegal.

Civilized Man Just Can't Live Without Cooks

TO AVERT the new peril which, the war being over, has risen to endanger the homes of the United States and Great Britain, American housewives are working out a plan along the lines of a movement already under way in England to solve the servant problem. In London the answer is the Legionary. In this country, according to the United States department of labor, it is "the industrialization of domestic service."

Cooks and housemaids, having escaped from the home, refuse to return to it on the old terms. Money in the case of domestic servants appears to be no object, in this country at least, for cooks, if they will consent to cook, can earn war wages even in the kitchen.

In spite of this and of the fact that women are more in demand as domestic servants than in any other field of human activity, reports from all over the country to the employment service agree that women are reverting to housework only when driven to it by sheer necessity, and then on the plain understanding that they will remain only until they can get something else to do.

Under these circumstances there has been created in London the Legionary, and in the United States there is in process of creation the "industrialized domestic." The Legionary is the brain-child of Lady Londonderry, president of the Women's legion. Lady Londonderry's plan is to organize, as women are demobilized, a household section. No uniform will be worn, during the hours of service, but when off duty the women will wear their badges and service stripes and, if they please, the uniform of the legion.

Domestic servants recruited and supplied by the section will work under conditions and terms of service drawn up by the legion, the idea being to render domestic work attractive by giving it a status equal that of similarly paid work outside the home. Hours of work and of recreation and terms of service, including a minimum wage, are clearly defined.

Split Is Threatened in the Good Roads Forces

A GOOD roads controversy that bids fair to split the highway forces of the nation into two hopelessly irreconcilable factions has developed out of the recently launched movement for a national system of "main line roads," to be built and maintained by the federal government.

Boosters for the project met in Chicago recently and formed a "federal highway council" to centralize and direct the national campaign which is already under way, focussed on members of congress and on the bill introduced by Senator Townsend of Michigan, in which the new plan has been embodied. So far as surface indications went everything was lovely.

As a matter of fact, the spirit of harmony was by no means as dominant as it appeared. Should the Townsend bill become a law, federal road building activities will be taken out of the hands of the department of agriculture and its bureau of public roads and turned over to a federal highways commission of five members. This body will be empowered to lay out, construct and maintain a national system of highways "to comprise not less than two main line roads in each state," with an appropriation of $425,000,000 provided for the purpose.

Opponents of the measure claim to have the support of Secretary Houston, who, it is said, does not favor altering the present plan of providing federal aid to the states in their own roadbuilding activities. Besides the forest service, in charge of the national forests, is the biggest political machine in the country. In fact, its influence depends upon its power to build roads in the national forests wherever it chooses.

Many of the states are naturally against it, since their highway commissioners prefer to do the work in their own way, and think they can do it better where she got her color. Many women, perhaps your neighbor, will tell you that she got her wonderful color, her vivacious spirits, her strength and health by taking a "temperance" tonic, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. A weakly, sickly, backache, headache, nervous, despondent woman, with regular or irregular pains—with feminine disorders that come in youth or middle age—is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for.

Sympathy as a Fine Art

Sympathy is one of the fine arts. It should enrich, not impoverish; strengthen, not weaken; inspire while it comforts. It is easy enough to say you are sorry. It is easy to grieve with your friend over his trouble and pity him for his misdeeds. But the sympathy which is a fine art does not encourage him to give way to despair. It stimulates. It puts hope in place of heartache. It points on and up. Do not wrong your friend with the sympathy which will make him feel like pitying himself.

Dream Has Physical Basis.

The "falling from a height" dream has a physical basis, for scientists have shown that this form of nightmare invariably occurs during the first few minutes after falling asleep. It is suggested by the general muscular relaxation that takes place when we settle down. A change of position or even a fraction of an inch, or the least little slip of the muscles, is sufficient to convey the idea of a fall to the brain.

KEEP THE LOAN FIRES BURNING, WORKERS!

"Finish the Job" Should Be the Slogan of Victory Liberty Loan Leaders of Seventh District.

SOLDIERS STICK TO POSTS

Chairmen and Their Aids Must Not Quit Until All the Government's War Obligations Have Been Discharged.

Returns at the five state headquarters in Chicago show that the county chairmen and other important workers in the Seventh Federal Reserve district are signing up for the fifth big loan. They are actuated by the same sense of duty, it is reported, as fills the breasts of the soldiers now held in France. The soldiers over there long for home; but they realize that their work is not done. Garrisonians must be held along the Rhine until peace has been formally signed and the terms of the peace treaty have been carried out.

In the same way it is generally recognized by chairmen and other workers throughout the Seventh Federal Reserve district, the men who are responsible for the financial part of the war, cannot quit until the financial obligations are discharged. The big bills for any undertaking come in immediately after the completion of that work. It would be an irresponsible business man, it is conceded on all hands, who would refuse responsibility for that part of his contractor's bills that came in after the driving of the last nail.

The Fourth Liberty Loan paid off the then outstanding treasury certificates of indebtedness and furnished enough new money to carry the government until mid-December. Since that date the treasury department has been borrowing from the banks at the rate of $300,000,000 a week, and by the time the Victory Loan is offered will owe nearly six billion dollars. The Fifth loan money will pay off these bank loans and carry the government until the money raised under the 1918 revenue act begins to come in.

The sudden termination of the war brought an increase in the day to day military expenditures. The total for December passed, for the first time, the two billion mark. The January total was slightly less, but exceeded any other month except January. February promises to show a considerable decrease. The high daily outlays since the end of fighting have been due to the liquidation of the war machine, and were unavoidable. There is still a great mass of contract obligations to be cleared away—contracts entered into by business men for the rush production of munitions that would have been absolutely essential had the war gone on for a few weeks or months longer.

Chairmen and workers who happen to hear of anyone who is declining to participate in the next loan have ready to their hands a set of the best possible arguments against this sort of conduct.

In the first place the man who refuses to work in the next loan or to buy bonds of the next issue can be charged with being a quitter or a coward. Neither is an especially American attribute. As a nation Americans have the reputation of seeing a thing through. And the fields of France proclaim that they are not cowards.

But the infrequent loan worker who is saying that he cannot find time to participate in the Victory drive, or does not feel any obligation to do so may be charged with cowardice. It is generally recognized where such an attitude is encountered that the man fears the fifth loan will not be a success. The man who is preparing to quit now, it is pointed out, is doing so because he does not want to be identified with a failure. The answer to this is that none of the 6,000 marines who stopped the victorious German march on Paris at Chateau Thierry asked to be excused from going into the fight because he expected it to be a failure. Yet all the foreign military men thought that the Americans could not stop the Germans at this point.

Another argument answers a good deal of half-hearted comment which maintains that it makes no difference whether the banks have to take the loan. But the business man or the wage earner who thinks that it makes no difference to him is decidedly mistaken. If the public does not take the bonds the banks, as everyone knows, must do so. Now on December 31 the national banks of the country had resources of $20,042,224,000. This was the first time in the nation's history that the total ever got above the twenty-billion mark.

This enormous banking power shows, for one thing, that the nation can take another six billion loan with ease if the organization gets out and works. But it also shows something else. The twenty billion, of course, is greatly more than the total that is actually available for credit operations. If the banks should have to take the greater part of the next loan, and to add this burden to the more than two billion now tied up in Liberty loans, and the additional treasury certificates

WOMEN'S COUNCIL MEETS IN PARIS

Y. W. C. A. PROMOTES WORLD FELLOWSHIP

Will Send Industrial Commission to Meet Foreign Labor Leaders.

The War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association plans to send an industrial commission of women to England, France and Italy in April to meet prominent labor leaders of those countries with a view to promoting world fellowship among women.

The commission will be made up of Mrs. Raymond Robbins, representing the National Women's Trade Union League of America; Mrs. Irene Osgood Andrews, American Association for Labor Legislation; Miss Grace Drake, National Consumers' League; Mrs. James S. Cushman, chairman of the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association; Miss Florence Simms, Miss Marie Wing and Miss Imogene B. Ireland, secretary to the commission, all of the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Mary Gilson, an authority on employment management.

Miss Florence Simms says in regard to the commission: "The war has forced upon us the bearing of international relationships in all things, and our touch with women in other countries has made us include in our international thinking the industrial life of women. The war has wrought so many changes in this that it seems a timely thing that women interested in the larger life of our women workers should take counsel together and express their interest with the hope that certain initial to health and welfare among women may be agreed upon and obtained."

Our War Work Council is sending abroad this women's commission from organizations in America directly concerned with the welfare and largest use of industrial women."

The Flow of Meat

Two-thirds of the live stock in the United States has to be raised in the West.

One-half of the consumers of meat live in the East.

In other words, stock is one or distant from most need it in the for.

Fifty years ago, raised close to every ter, the country butcher the job after a fashion.

But the job got too big. Now millions of animals moved hundreds of miles to millions people. Somewhere on the way the have to be turned into meat.

The packers solved the problem. They set up plant where the "live haul" and the "mat haul" were in the right balance. They built up distributing systems—refrigerator cars, refrigerating plants branch houses. They saved time, money and meat everywhere. The packer benefited in better meats and higher prices; the consumer in better meat and lower prices.

As the country grew, the packers had to grow, or break down. Because of its present sized efficiency, Swift & Company is able to perform its part in this service a fraction of a cent per pound profit.
